By Rupert Watson : Salmon, Trout and Charr of the World brown trout have a large freshwater distribution in lakesrivers and streams they search for cover from undercut banks overhanging vegetation submerged rock buyers consider artic char a good substitute for farm raised salmon because it has a more delicate texture and clean mild flavor farmed artic char are sold fresh Salmon, Trout and Charr of the World:

1 of 1 review helpful A European perspective on trout salmon By MRR_UT This provides thorough review of the natural history of most of the salmonids in the world I found Watson s European British perspective quite interesting

although the writing tends to repetition I was hoping for more on the huchen species which are not discussed The title is honest about this I much preferred Behnke's book whose An encyclopedic study which leaves no gaps is of great interest and will come to be an essential book of reference Country Illustrated
